

Bring the essentials of the finer life into your modern space with the protoplasm tile. Eye-catching and mysterious, meld's newest accent tile stimulates the senses and adds a distinct touch to any space. Its curved sides create a striking profile whether interlocked or separate and allow for endless possibilities and applications. Protoplasm's multidimensional design represents an evolution in concrete, combining the latest technological capabilities with the handcrafted touch our devotees have to come to expect. Form-finished in extremeconcrete® and available in a variety of colors, protoplasm is the building block of good design.
